fauna of 50 African states (or country) were evaluated. Synonymous lists of the species and subspecies, recorded in the Continent Africa, had been arranged by the authors using the information of the Databank of the Cesa. For this purpose, totally 22904 valid taxa of species and subspecies in Africa, were listed alphabetically under the related families.

In the present report, the Lepidoptera fauna of 53 African states (or country) are evaluated (Fig. 1). Synonymous names are also added to each species in chronological order. Nomenclaturally unavailable names marked with #. Generic names are omitted for the time being.

The numbers of the species group taxa of the states are updated as follows:

Database Programs of the Cesa

Since 1998, for the digital information system of the Cesa the Foxpro 2.5 has been used by the authors (see Infosystem of the Cesa <http://www.cesa-tr.org/Infos.htm>). There are several database program prepared by the authors themselves. The main file comprises 79 basic fields on the Lepidoptera taxonomy, fauna, morphology, bibliography, distributions, etc. (Figs. 2, 3). The name of the taxon is used in accordance with the uni-, bi-, and trinomial combinations with the author and date of publication. The synonymous and homonymous names are arranged chronologically. Range of the taxon is explained by special codes (currently more than 6000 geographical codes were produced by the authors). Briefly, 79 specific and worldwide questions can be answered in this database file. Updating, correcting or sorting data according to the alphabetical or taxonomical orders are very easy. Besides, several complementary database files are currently used by the authors. Searching an information within these files or extracting to a new file is also extremely easy. For that reason, the present database program used by us is very useful and practicable, in comparing with the other types based upon Access or Excel programs. Therefore the datasystem of the Cesa with its scientific results (published so far) are reliable. Consequently our efforts on this subject cannot be considered useless.
